Examiner's Amendment

1) An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Cancel claims 10-15.

Change title to --Apparatus for extruding unvulcanized rubber--.

In specification:

on line 4 of the replacement paragraph for the paragraph beginning on page 10 line 17, change "inner surface of a carcass" to --outer surface of a carcass--.

2) Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Robert Miller on 11-22-04.

Reasons for Allowance

3) The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art of record including Nakamura and Japan '426 fail to disclose, teach or suggest the specific flow dividing mechanism set forth on lines 22-30 of claim 1. In Nakamura, unvulcanized rubber C flows through a passage 4c and then flows through passage 10c-1 in a hollow sheath portion 32 of a subblock insert 30 (a flow dividing mechanism). The unvulcanized rubber C is discharged from the subblock insert 30 through a slit 35 in the hollow sheath portion 32 so as to form a rectangular conductive insert extending through the entire thickness of the tread. See figure 9 and figure 18. Unvulcanized rubber A flows through passage 4a and is then separated by subblock 30 into two portions having the rectangular conductive insert therebetween. For passage 4a, see figures 4 and 9. For subblock insert 30, see figures 4 and 9. Japan '426 suggests intermittently forming broad anchors on a conductive rubber insert to block its shrinkage in the thickness direction. Shaping the slit 35 so as to have broad anchors as shown in Japan '426's table at the top of column 9 allows the nonconducting rubber A to be on both sides of the intruding middle board anchor. The subblock insert 30 protrudes from the unvulcanized rubber C passage side (the second passage side) toward the unvulcanized rubber A passage (the first passage) such that subblock insert 30 extends completely across the opening of the die plate 6 so that the third passage 10c-1 is completely isolated and the flow of unvulcanized rubber C is not affected by the flow of unvulcanized rubber A through the passage 11a. Nakamura fails to teach disposing the end portion of subblock insert 30 "at a portion substantially corresponding to a widthwise intermediate portion of the opening of the die plate, the widthwise direction corresponding to a direction in which the first weir protrudes". The prior art of record whether taken singly or in combination fails to disclose, teach or suggest "one end portion of the first weir is connected to the passage-forming die and the other end portion thereof is disposed at a portion substantially corresponding to a widthwise intermediate portion of the opening of the die plate, the widthwise direction corresponding to a direction in which the first weir protrudes" (emphasis added) in combination with the remaining limitations of claim 1.

Art Unit: 1733

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably
